to the President's epinions of events, his view of any pending question, and his recommendations to Congress, it stands easily first of the public utterances of the day.

Though addressed to Congress, and intended for the enlightenment of that body, it is none the less the communication of the head of the greatest of governments to the most remarkable of peoples. Much that it is the duty of the President to present formally to Congress has already been given in the newspapers and need not be given seen that the published message. newspapers and need not be given heart. The country cannot fail to appreciate and commend the entire frankness with which the Pressident takes all the people into his confidence. The Message will set the country to thinking more seriously on some questions which demand its most serious thought.

Indorsing the President.

In the unseemly squabble over the few federal offices in Northern Illinois our Senators have not shown up to much advantage. They have sacrificed a good deal of dignity in hanging over at the White House and pestering the President to appoint their favorites. It is to the credit of President Harrison that he has ot allowed himself to be influenced by not allowed himself to be influenced by their clamor, but has persisently refused to appoint any man until thoroughly convinced of his fitness. The sympathy of the general public is with him, and not with the senators and Representatives who have annoyed him with their importunities. These last were elected for something else than the securing of fat places for their friends, and would stand much better before the people if they kept aloot and allowed the President to make his own selections for office.

HOSPITAL REMEDIES.

A New Method of Treating Disease A New Method of Treating Diseases.
What are they? There is a new departure in the treatment of diseases. It consists in the collection of the specifics used by noted specialists of Europe and America, and bringing them within the reach of all. For instance the treatment pursued by special physicians who treat indigestion, stomach and fiver troubles only, was abtained and prepared. The treatment of other physicians, celebrated for curing catarrh was procured, and so or curing catarrh was procured, and s on till these incomparable cures now in-clude disease of the lungs, kidneys, fe-male weakness, rheumatism and nervous

This new method of "one remedy for one disease" must appeal to the common sense of all sufferrs, many of whom have experienced the ill effects, and thoroughly realize the absurdity of the claims of Patent Medicines which are guaranteed to cure every ill out of a single bottle, and the use of which, as statistics prove, has rained more stomachs than in Central Park)—Say, Bruno, are you game for a run ever to the Mall with Bruno—Certainly!
